This Year's Gray PEAR Affair

The 38th Gray PEAR Affair family reunion is about to happen. Tonight and tomorrow we will gather at the home of Chris and Allison Mesa who own property in Gold Bar, large enough for horses thus the inspiration for this year's theme: "Golden Gatherings, Parading Horses."

Once again there will be a piñata and games. The first game is "Hay Relay for the Neigh, Neigh" wherein teammates will gather "bales" of hay while wearing horse ears. A second game is to match up boots and riddles about horses.

There is also a horse decorating activity. The horse parade involves putting together paper horses, embellishing and naming them then displaying them in a parade to win prizes.

And, as is tradition, all attendees will score a special button to add to their collection!

Loss of a Very Good Friend

Early this month, Mary Miller, a friend I have known since she was in kindergarten passed away. Mary and I spent many hours at her lake cabin and at Lake Samish skiing, hiking, and enjoying hot dogs over a fire. I always looked forward to our visits every summer when we were in Washington for the Gray PEAR Affair family reunion. Washington visits without Mary will never be the same again.
