

Titling along!

The last weekend in October, Brooklyn received her second Barn Hunt title. Not only can she now add RATO to her list of titles, she also took first place three days in a row and High in Class on two of those days because of how fast she found the rats. With a two and a half minute limit to find two rats, climb on a bale of hay and go through a tunnel, her best time was 61.71 seconds. She was on fire!

Update on Morgan's July dog dancing challenge!

It took awhile to receive the results about Morgan passing her dog dancing routine. Happy to announce, she did! And, as expected, she did so with flying colors scoring 143 points. She outdid Brooklyn who scored 116 points in the challenge she entered in March. You can view Morgan's dance here:

https://youtu.be/0EH_i4nfUp8/.

Brooklyn & Morgan's brace performance

Brooklyn and Morgan are now entered in yet another dance challenge, this time as a brace, i.e., both dancing together performed to the music titled Bedtime Bear Waltz.

After being video-taped yesterday and doing so well, I will be surprised if they don't pass this last level of three required for our Musical Interpretation Title (DCD-MI) from Dogs Can Dance®. And if they do pass, they will also receive a rosette with this title to add to their growing collection of both rosettes (as shown at right) and the many, many ribbons they have received—so many there wasn't room to include them in a photo.

Special Company

Kathy flew into Sacramento, California last week to spend a few days with us. Chris then came down for an overnight visit driving her from his house to ours. Always so nice to see these two!

How Many Pieces?

After starting this gigantic puzzle a month and a half ago, Robert finished it the day after Kathy headed home with hopes of seeing it finished before she left. She too is a puzzle lover and was a big help in piecing all that blue sky together while she was here.

Answer: 6,000 pieces!

Birthdays galore

First was Chris on November 1st then there was Miles on November 1st (yes the same day as Chris) followed by Morgan on November 10th. Chris is now 54. Miles is now six. Morgan is now five.

