

Brooklyn Scores in Barn Hunt

Brooklyn entered her 2nd barn hunt trial in Dixon on October 29th and passed! She now has one leg toward her barn hunt novice title. She is entered in two trials on December 2nd. If she passes both, she will receive her first barn hunt title.

Showing Days Over

From the beginning, the plan was to take Morgan to a Championship only and no further thus these are the last conformation photos of Morgan. After receiving her championship, Morgan's breeder asked me if I was going to breed her. She was disappointed when I told her I was not. She has been telling me over and over how beautiful and well structured Morgan is (Morgan was actually the breeder's first pick until she decided to go with her sister because of her larger stature). Morgan will now spend more time doing agility, scent work, and dog dancing.

The Pine's Remodeling Project

Just installed today: a new window in their new family room. Little by little things are coming together but not soon enough for us to spend Thanksgiving at their house this year as planned. We are looking at going up for Christmas instead.

November Birthdays

On November 1st, Chris turned 53 and Miles turned 5. On November 10th, Morgan turned 4. Chris scored sugar cookies (he doesn't like cake) with purple frosting (his favorite color) and Morgan scored a cake made of cat food and dog biscuits topped with four carrots to represent candles. Miles got to wear a party hat. Too bad I didn't think to make him a cake like I did for Morgan! Next year Miles.

A Puzzle Jackpot

Robert received all these puzzles (a total of 53) from a member of the dog club who no longer works puzzles and is in the process of disposing stuff she no longer has a need to keep. How long will it take Robert to work them all?
